NURSES' CLUBS STARTED HERE

Idea Enthusiastically Received and Plans Are Made to Secure Permanent Quarters.

The first meeting of the Richmond Nurses' Club was held yesterday afternoon in the Virginia Hospital, with a large number of nurses of Richmond present. The meeting was entirely one of organization and when the officers and the various committees had been elected and appointed the meeting adjourned until next Tuesday afternoon to hear the reports of the committees. The officers elected were: President, Miss Dettmer; First Vice-President, Miss Ruth Robinson; Second Vice-President, Miss Margaret Watkins; Recording Secretary, Miss Rachel Isaacson; Treasurer, Miss Sally Webb. The objects of the club, as shown by the constitution and by-laws, which were adopted, are mutual help and the advancement of the standing and interests of registered nurses, to place the profession on the highest plane, to uphold a code of ethics, to provide social intercourse, and to establish club rooms for the members. The meeting was most enthusiastic, those present representing the training schools of every hospital in the city, beside a number of nurses who graduated from out of town institutions. The club idea was received most heartily, and in every reason to believe that it will be carried through most successfully. A committee was appointed by the president to look for clubrooms. The Alumnae Association of the Virginia Hospital Training School for Nurses held its monthly meeting yesterday afternoon in the Virginia Hospital also. A great deal of routine business was transacted and the association was reported to be in satisfactory condition. The next meeting will be held on the first Tuesday in July.

SHIELD OF HONOR

Convention Warmly Welcomed and Will Begin Its Work To-day.

Delegates to the thirty-third session of the Supreme Lodge, Shield of Honor, spent yesterday afternoon at the time yesterday in enjoying themselves and in visiting the many places of interest that Richmond affords. At Smithfield Hall, at which addresses of welcome were delivered by Governor William Hodges Mann and Mayor D. C. Richardson, the delegates adjourned shortly after noon to meet again this morning, when the convention will get down to business. New members were received at the opening session, and among other reports read was that of the committee on finance, which showed the order to be in a highly prosperous condition, with a surplus of $176,000 to its credit. The visitors express themselves as highly pleased with the welcome extended to them by Governor Mann and Mayor Richardson, and with the treatment they have received at every point.

The delegates will convene again to-day and will be in session over to-morrow.

GOOD ENOUGH TO SIT BEFORE KING

Market Filled With Choice Spring Delicacies to Suit Every Fancy.

Had Lucullus lived till now how happy he would have been. How his aristocratic feet would have enjoyed a stroll through the Richmond markets, how his epicurean soul would have revelled at sight of the stuff that is there to eat. Poor Lucullus! Unhappy fellow! What he has missed by cashing in these many lusty toms soon! Now is the time when nature's garden blooms its fairest, and now is the time when that glad noise of which Byron wrote—"That softening, overpowering knell That treads on me soul—the dinner bell," is, indeed, music to the ear. The market places are piled high with the season's choicest offerings. Good things to eat are there in bunches, in baskets and by the peck. Sugar corn as tender as a maiden's cheek is there, and spring onions, long green bunches of them, and the king of delectables, the succulent squash. String beans, green peas, lettuce and the unrivaled huckleberry, richer far than pulpy figs from distant Sicily—they, too, are present, gladdening the huckster's board and waiting for the housewives' baskets and that dish of kings, huckleberry pie. Strawberries, the season's last and sweetest, raspberries, canteloupes and other things are in abundance. Bunches of cherries, bunches of rhubarb, bunches of joy. Shades of Lucullus! Spring time, and with it spring vegetables, hath arrived.

MUST FILE ANSWER

Pollard & Bagby Cited to Appear in Suit of W. A. Green.

In the case of William A. Green against Pollard & Bagby, pending in the City Circuit Court, an order was entered yesterday requiring the defendants to file the grounds of their defense on or before June 13. Mr. Green, who represents the plaintiff, Carter and Nelson, asserts that in October, 1909, he purchased through Pollard & Bagby, real estate agents, property owned by Mary C. West, 2219 and 2225 Chaffin Street, for $14,355. He claims that he was assured that the property was free from all encumbrances, which he found after he took possession, not to be the case, and alleges that he was put to great expense thereby.

MUNICIPAL JOBS GOING BEGGING TO HOLD MEETING

Nobody's Name on Official Ballot for Election at Woodstock.

Although the town of Woodstock, the county seat of Shenandoah county, in common with all other towns and cities in the State, will have an election next Tuesday for municipal officers, no names will appear on the official ticket. This, of course, is caused by the fact that no candidates filed their names with the clerk of the Mayor or Councilmen with the clerk of the town.

A local paper says that the present officials had been the recipients of such a large amount of kicking that they did not wish to again serve the public. Those who kicked, it appears, did not want the jobs either, so there will be nothing to guide the voter. The result, it is presumed, will be the writing in of countless names, making the counting of the ballots anything but a picnic for the officers of election.

Williams against the Citizens' Exchange Bank for damages in the sum of $1,500. G. Carlton Jackson is attorney for Mr. Williams.

HENRICO TO WAGE WAR ON SPEEDERS

Supervisors and Police Unite in Effort to Check Growing Evil.

CALL GENERAL MEETING

Sheriff Kemp Instructed to Have His Deputies at Conference on Saturday.

Henrico county gave notice yesterday morning that motor car owners who have been violating speed limit laws will be put on the grill. The first real warfare against the racing mania will be waged in earnest. Just as soon as a new stretch of good road is put in shape automobile people find it, and, according to the authorities, they put on the high gear and proceed to burn the atmosphere.

Due to the number of complaints, the Board of Supervisors took official notice of the recent violations at the meeting yesterday morning. It was decided to have a general conference at the courthouse on Saturday morning, when supervisors and officers will map out a campaign. Sheriff Kemp was instructed to summon every deputy sheriff, constable and special policeman. They will talk over the matter, get a line on some of the star offenders, find out just where the speeding is most prevalent, and do a little quick work to catch the racers. Sheriff Kemp will have his men on hand.

Won't Harass Good Ones.

It was explained that no attempt will be made to harass automobile owners who have some regard for the rights of others and whose pleasure trips through the county are not objectionable. As a matter of fact, the Board of Supervisors and the Richmond Automobile Club in particular realize the harm which comes to all from the frantic performances of a certain element which ignores the public.

The speeders have been dealt with in the city, and to satisfy their sporting blood they have invaded the sacred precincts of Henrico. It was explained yesterday at the meeting that often women driving along the county roads have been frightened with their horses and that serious accidents have been narrowly averted. "Automobile owners are welcome to our roads," said a county official, "but they must not endanger our lives by reckless driving."

All Not Alike.

"It is unfair, of course, to put all automobile owners in the same class. I believe that the majority of them observe the law. But every day a young sport gets out and proceeds to race his huckster business just that much, and the dealers are anxious to see the evil abated. It is going to be abated in Henrico county."

Exactly how the supervisors and the police will work to apprehend those who violate the law has not been explained. Pickets may be stationed along favored stretches of road with stop watches and distances measured so that the officers will be able to keep tally on the speedometers.

Will Not Build Bridge.

The proposition of building a bridge across James River near the Westhampton was considered finally by the Henrico County Board of Supervisors yesterday. The supervisors rejected the plan on the ground that the cost of the structure would far outweigh any benefits that might be derived.

THIRCE ATTEMPTS TO TAKE HER LIFE

Goaded by Gossip, Mrs. Coffey Swallows Large Dose of Laudanum.

HAD JUST BEEN DISARMED

Police Officer Bryan Takes Pistol From Desperate Woman.

Driven to desperation by neighbors' gossip about her, Mrs. A. T. Coffey, of 1429 North Twenty-ninth Street, drank laudanum last night about 11 o'clock in an effort to commit suicide. Prior to drinking the poison, Mrs. Coffey tried to shoot herself, but was disarmed by Mounted Policeman Bryan. She then tried to dash a lighted lamp in her face.

Putting her six children to bed about 10:30 o'clock, Mrs. Coffey sat down to write her father a letter before killing herself. She has rooms in the same house with her brother-in-law. Members of the family became alarmed and telephoned for a policeman.

Mounted Officer Bryan hurried to the Coffey home. He saw Mrs. Coffey sealing the letter which she had just finished writing. When the officer entered the room she grabbed a pistol and would have fired had not Bryan disarmed her. The crazed woman then caught up a lighted lamp and attempted to throw it in her face, but was prevented from doing so.

When the officer entered the room she grabbed a pistol and would have fired had not Bryan disarmed her. The crazed woman then caught up a lighted lamp and attempted to throw it in her face, but was prevented from doing so.

Goaded by Gossip.

After talking to the woman for a short time, Officer Bryan quitted her. She told him that neighbors were talking about her, and that she could not get along with her brother-in-law. She said she worked in a tobacco factory every day to earn money to support her children. She said she was goaded to desperation by the gossip of neighbors, and had made up her mind to end her life.

Leaving the house, Patrolman Bryan believed he had dissuaded Mrs. Coffey from further attempts to commit suicide. He had gone but a short distance when he was recalled by screams and shouts that Mrs. Coffey had committed suicide. He hurried to the house to find the woman lying on the bed in a half-conscious state. He quickly sent in a call for the ambulance. Dr. Collins responded and administered antidotes, which soon revived her. She will recover.

Attempted Suicide.

Tired of fighting life's battles and determined to die, Jessie Kellie, twenty-five years old, of 1422 East Franklin Street, swallowed several pills of mercury tablets yesterday afternoon about 6 o'clock in an effort to commit suicide.

Prompt medical attention by Dr. Collins, of the City Hospital, saved the woman's life. After working with her for several hours, the physician succeeded in bringing her back to consciousness. She will recover.

Members of the delegation said last night that no attempt would be made to secure the election of a new president for the next year, but that plans would be made and promises secured for the convention of 1912.

BOLLING OFFERS PLAN FOR DOCKS

Engineer's Estimate for Bulkhead Exceeds Appropriation in Budget.

MAY DELAY HARBOR WORK

No Provision Made for Wharf or Warehouses in Drawings Submitted.

How to carry out a $35,000 undertaking on an appropriation of $20,000 was the problem which the Committee on Improvement of the James River faced last night and only a partial solution was reached. Following the purchase last year of a strip of land facing on James River for about 700 feet from the mouth of Gillie's Creek to the foot of Nicholson Street, for the joint purpose of providing a roadway to Euton above high water, and the construction of public shipping facilities, City Engineer Bolling prepared plans for a bulkhead, wharf and wharf house, the bulkhead being estimated at $25,000 and the house at $10,000. The drawings, which were in charge of government work on the James River.

When the Committee on Finance made the annual budget, it provided an item of $20,000 for James River docks. Since that time City Engineer Bolling has visited Washington, Baltimore and New York, and Assistant City Engineer Fontaine Jones has inspected wharf and bulkhead construction in Newport News and Norfolk, and the committee last night, with the statement that the house could be erected later, as it would require about six months to construct the bulkhead.

Should Build for Entire Length.

Mr. Bolling strongly advised that the bulkhead be built for the entire length of the curve indicated on his plans, giving as his reason that were it cut in half to save original cost it would be more expensive to add some months later, and that such a construction would probably be a detriment to the lower wharf and wharf house, and constant dredging to keep the wharf clear of mud. Mr. Bolling, the only member of the Finance Committee present, said it had been his opinion that the body that the appropriation would probably be available to cover the cost of the initial work in the river, which would take about six months to complete. The item could be provided in the budget of next year for the superstructure, wharf platform and houses. With this plan in mind, Mr. Bolling plans were referred to a subcommittee consisting of Messrs. Richardson, Freeman, Garber, Zimmerman and Bryan, to report back to a special meeting next week when bids will be called for on the bulkhead proper, the wharf houses being reserved for construction at a later date.

Bids for Coal.

The following bids were opened for supplying the city tug and dredges with run of mine steam coal for one year: River Coal Company, $2.75; S. H. Hawes & Co., $2.80; East Coal Company, $3.00; Lathrop Coal Company, $2.80; City Coal Company, $2.90. The contract, 1,000 tons, more or less, was awarded to the City Coal Company as the lowest bidder.

STRUCK WITH PICKAXE

Jack Robinson Arrested for Attack on William Mack. As the result of a row, William Mack, colored, of the Fifteenth Street, was struck on the head with a pickaxe handle by Jack Robinson, colored, yesterday afternoon about 1 o'clock. Mack was taken to the City Hospital.

The attack occurred near the Westhampton line in Henrico county. The injured man was taken to the City Hospital in the ambulance. Physicians have slight hope of his recovery. Henrico county officers arrested Robinson late yesterday afternoon. He is in jail on a charge of felonious assault.

Building and repair permits were issued yesterday as follows: Mrs. Mattie E. Ready, to erect a two-story brick stable in rear of 1914 Floyd Avenue, to cost $100. A. Mercer, and the music to be rendered will be of a high order. Having had opportunity to observe the work of the past session, to drill his pupils, Mercer is of the opinion that it will far surpass the work of the children's chorus of the Wednesday Club, of which he was also the director, but which was a voluntary organization. The purpose is to demonstrate the musical work being done by the public schools of the city, and patrons and friends are invited. There will be no charge for admission and no entrance cards will be required.

TEMPERANCE MEETING

Bi-County Convention Discusses Many Questions—Quiz on By-Laws.

Many delegates attended Woman's Christian Temperance Union, which was in session yesterday. The convention was opened by Rev. R. H. Bowden, and the entire morning session was given over to the discussion of the question, "The Effects of Intemperance on the Community." Mrs. M. C. Strother was leader. Following luncheon, which was served at 1 o'clock, the delegates engaged in a quiz on the by-laws and constitution of the organization, and reports of committees were heard and other matters of routine business were transacted. No new business came before the meeting. Mrs. J. T. Johnson presided. In connection with the convention, an entertainment consisting of music and recitations was given in the Baptist Church on Monday evening. The following ladies and were awarded silver medals: Misses Gladys Martenstein, Leola Ball, Gladys Palmatary, Hattie Henderson, Edith Gunn and Teresa Johnson.

CLOSE ON SATURDAY, SO THEY CAN SELL ON SUNDAY

Because they convinced Justice Crutchfield they observe Saturday as their Sabbath, Michael Kocen and Louis Saks, confectioners at 334 Williamsburg Avenue, were yesterday acquitted in Police Court on a charge of violating the law by selling on Sunday. Patrolman Griffin testified the defendants closed their place on Saturday.

Fined, but Takes Appeal.

On a charge of selling liquor on Sunday and without a license, Lulu Penn was yesterday fined $100 and costs and placed under bond of $500 for two months by Police Justice Crutchfield. Attorneys Gilbert K. Pollock and Harry M. Smith, Jr., represented the woman. An appeal was taken to the Hustings Court.

Many Claim Injury, but Few Win Final Verdicts in the Courts.

The annual report of the City Attorney, which came from the printer yesterday, shows that during the past year judgments obtained against the city in all courts aggregated only $4162, less than 1 per cent. of the outlay made during the year for street and sewer improvements. Most of the suits have been caused by reason of damage to abutting property through changes in grades of streets, or personal injuries to citizens through failure of workmen or contractors prepared to barricade and light obstructions.

Thirty-nine suits against the city were instituted during the year. On January 1 there were pending in all courts seventy-nine suits and appeals in which the city was a party. Forty-eight cases were disposed of during the year, the city winning nine appeals and seventeen suits, and losing seven appeals and eighteen suits.

Mr. Pollard discusses at some length the case of City of Richmond against Wood, which was in the nature of a test case, and in which the city lost. Wood and a number of associates established their right to obtain damages from the city for the flooding of streets in the case of accidents from encroachments in the streets.

Appeal to Supreme Court. Mr. Pollard also discusses in some detail the appeal to the Supreme Court for the reversal of an old decision regarding the liability of the city for damages in the case of accidents from encroachments in the streets.

The lower courts found for the city, but on appeal the Supreme Court, with Judge Buchanan dissenting, decided that the former decision laid down instructions for the removal of obstructions from the streets. Inasmuch as hundreds of such obstructions exist, the situation becomes embarrassing in the extreme. After careful consideration I have determined to appeal to the next session of the General Assembly to amend the statute so as expressly to give jurisdiction to the police justices of the cities of the Commonwealth.

Question Still Pending.

The Eubank case, involving the constitutional validity of the building law, is reported as still pending before the Supreme Court. In the case of the city of Richmond against Mason, decided by the Supreme Court last June, the question arose as to the liability of the city for damages growing out of accidents happening upon streets in the annexed territory before the city could collect funds for the purpose of repairing such streets. It was in effect held that until the city could under its charter raise the money for the improvements in the new section, it could not be held liable for the defective condition of the streets.

Emmett Taylor Determined to Stop Cruelty of Keeper. The case of Joe Johnson, charged with cruelty in treating a monkey at Edgewood Park, where the public was invited to throw balls at the little animal's head, was yesterday continued in Police Court by Justice Crutchfield until to-morrow.

Emmett Taylor, representing the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, who swore out the warrant against Johnson, said last night that he intends pushing the charge. He said he saw the monkey noddling from his perch twice by the throw at his head. "I shall arrest Johnson again if he attempts to let people throw at his monkey," said Mr. Taylor.
